Tammy Pourdas applies sunblock to her daughter Joy (age 3 1/2) during a break from swimming at the Wilson Park pool on Tuesday afternoon

Remember, wear sunscreen

Public urged to limit sun exposure during mid-day hours

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

The sun is unrelenting. Yet you want to spend a refreshing afternoon at the pool or perhaps smacking tennis balls around the court for an hour or two without turning into Sebastian from The Little Mermaid.

According to Sharon Hoffarth, medical director of Blue Cross/Blue Shield in St.

Louis, to avoid that aching sunburn, you should try to postpone your extended outdoor activities from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., when the sun's rays are the most intense.

"You can minimize your exposure by avoiding the sun as much as possible during those hours. If you plan to go outside for some time, you should always wear a brimmed hat and apply sunscreen to exposed skin," Hoffarth said.

The sunscreen, she said, should be applied 15 to 30 minutes before venturing outdoors and should have a sun protection factor (SPF) rating of at least 15, which will protect you from about 93 percent of the more harmful UVB rays.

Sunscreens with higher SPFs, she said, offer extra protection to those who are extremely sun-sensitive.

"Use it in generous amounts," Hoffarth said. "It should be re-applied every two or three hours, and more often

Senate kills steel bill

Legislation to limit steel imports opposed

By Scott Cousins

A bill that would have imposed quotas for foreign steel imports was killed in the U.S. Senate Tuesday.

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin, D-Illinois, who supported the bill, said the vote sends a clear message that Congress will not support quotas and another way to combat steel dumping by foreign companies must be Durbin said that vote showed that it would not be able to pass.

In Illinois and Missouri, voting was along party lines, with Republicans opposed and Democrats in favor.

Hoffman supports bill

Legislation to assist retirees on way to governor

By Val McDowell
Staff writer

A number of senior citizen advocacy group leaders joined State Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, Wednesday to urge Gov. George Ryan to sign two seniors' rights bills into law.

They gathered at the Collinsville Senior Citizen Center at 420 E. Main, where Hoffman held a press conference to discuss the legislation.

House Bill 427 would help standardize and improve licensing of assisted living communities in the state and encourage the private-sector to continue working with state agencies to develop the communities.

Assisted living communities are apartment-style, independent living centers where qualified medical staff checks in on residents on a regular basis. They offer privacy, while also providing needed medical attention.

Once licensed, a community becomes eligible to receive funding from various state agencies for support.

"Seniors will be allowed to live in these type of licensed facilities that are going to assist, with state money, to provide living arrangements that fill the gap between living

Edwardsville road rezoned

Gateway raceway spurs change in zoning characteristics

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

The Granite City Council passed an ordinance Tuesday evening in which a large section of Edwardsville Road was rezoned from residential to commercial.

The rezoned area ranges from the corporate limits of Madison and Granite City to 14th Street.

Properties on the northwest part of Meridian Avenue and on the southwest part of Rhodes Street were included in the rezoning. The council voted in favor of the rezoning by an 11-1 margin, with Second Ward Alderman Craig Tarpoff abstaining and Fifth Ward Alderman Eddie Asadorian voting against.

The city orchestrated a long-range plan about 10 years ago for Tri-City Park to become an industrial site. The emergence of Gateway International Raceway changed those plans.

Consequently, Madison rezoned a section of Edwardsville Road from residential to commercial, hoping for an influx of development. Granite City has now followed

Grant sought for preserve

Council sponsors attempt to create a 500-acre park

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Madison City Council has unofficially agreed to be the sponsoring agency to seek a grant to purchase land for a nature preserve on Chouteau Island.

Trailnet Inc., which is renovating the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge, is seeking a combination of state, federal and private funds to develop a 500-acre nature preserve on the island.

At a Committee of the Whole meeting Monday afternoon, the Council voted unanimously - with three members absent - to be the sponsoring unit of government for the grant, which could be up to $200,000.

The vote is unofficial, and the full council is expected to officially approve the matter at its June 29 meeting.

Trailnet is seeking a grant from the Illinois Department of Natural Resources Open Space Land Acquisition and Development program.

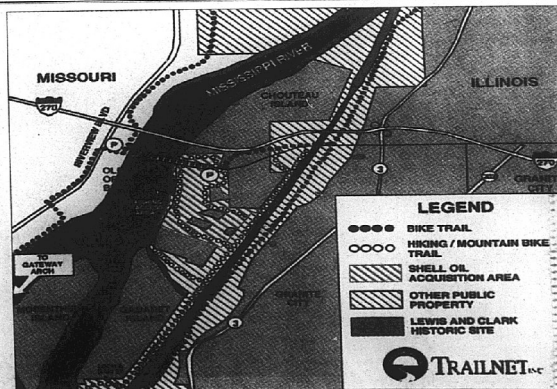

The program is similar to bikeway grants Trailnet has used for the bridge and other trail projects.

In addition, Trailnet is expected to receive funding for the project from a Shell Oil "settlement fund." That fund is a fine paid by the company that goes toward land acquisition for environmental projects. A formal announcement on how much Trailnet will receive is expected in several weeks.

As envisioned by Trailnet, the preserve would be about 500 acres and include "extensive" mountain biking, hiking, equestrian and cross-country ski trails.

The preserve would be adjacent to

It's never too early to start figuring out taxes

Planning ahead now could ease your burden next April 15

By Robert E. Brazzil

With your 1998 taxes behind you and about 10 months before the deadline for next year's filing, this might be a good time to sit back and take the leisurely road to taxes. Start now and plan ahead. Now is the time to get your records in order and look for ways to save on your 1999 taxes. A good starting point is taking a close look at last year's return. You should also take into consideration any life-changing events you might have had, such as marriage, divorce, children, a new house or any other change that can make a difference in the bottom line of your taxes. These are personal considerations that are different for everyone.

A good starting point (for finding ways to save on your 1999 tax burden) is taking a close look at last year's return. You should also take into consideration any life-changing events you might have had, such as marriage, divorce, children, a new house or any other change that can make a difference in the bottom line of your taxes.

New tax law changes, on the other hand, can affect everyone. There are a number of changes that became effective or changed for 1999 and could impact your taxes. The tax rates are indexed for inflation, as are the personal exemption and standard deduction amounts. For 1999, the personal exemption increases to $2,750, while the standard deduction increases to $7,200 for married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er); $6,350 for head of household; $4,300 for single; and $3,600 for married filing separately. The Child Tax Credit increases from $400 to $500 for each dependent child under age 17.

Other areas to consider in planning your 1999 tax bill include the new educational incentives, such as the Hope Scholarship and Lifetime Learning tax credits, the Educational IRA or the student loan interest deduction.

If you are in business, the expanded rules for business use of your home could affect your deduction and the Section 179 deduction for depreciation have been increased.

Once you have determined which changes may affect your personal taxes, there are steps you can take to eliminate a tax surprise next April. You can estimate the amount of money you will pay at that time, and can also decide whether you or the U.S. Treasury will have use of your money during the year. You can avoid being over-withheld this year by planning ahead. With a little effort, it is easy. The IRS has a form you can use to calculate what your federal withholding should be based on your individual situation.

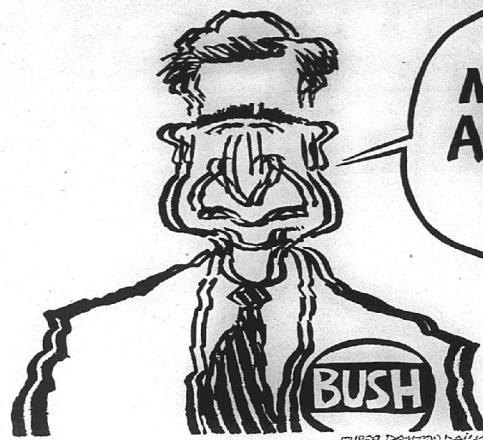

It is called Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," which you should be able to obtain from your employer. On the form, you will find a handy worksheet that helps you determine the correct amount that should be withheld from your paycheck each pay period, based on your individual circumstances.

If you are self-employed you can use Form 1040-ES, "Estimated Tax For Individuals," to determine your quarterly tax payments. Remember, you can recalculate every quarter to reflect your tax situation for that quarter.

Incidentally, if you are paying estimated taxes, your next payment was due June 15. To obtain a Form W-4 or Form 1040-ES, you can download either form from our IRS web site at <http://www.irs.ustreas.gov>, or you can call the IRS forms order number toll-free at (800) 829-3676 and have the forms mailed to you.

It's never too early to take the time to plan ahead.

New rules could lead to truth disclosures

Illinois citizens would really get to see their tax dollars at work

Rich Miller

the voters when these new rules take effect.

Ever wonder how much of your entrance fee to the local municipal swimming pool is really subsidizing operations? The new accounting rules will tell you.

Why spend big bucks repairing the fire station's roof when you now know that the entire building will need to be knocked down in two years? And how long will the new road and infrastructure repairs last that are included in Gov. George Ryan's $12 billion Illinois FIRST plan?

Right now, the state doesn't have to tell us. The government might spend millions to fix up a couple miles of road that will need even more millions of repairs in a few years.

Ah, you probably still don't care, apathy being what it is. Hey, don't feel bad. I'm not sure I'm jumping up and down in rapturous excitement right now, either. But there are humans out there who really do care about this sort of stuff.

State Rep. Jeff Schoenberg (D-Evanston) is one of them. Schoenberg is probably best known for stopping what looked to most people like a sweetheart purchase of a Chicago office building by the Illinois Department of Public Aid. The seller's price was just too high, well above the going rate for office space in downtown Chicago. And the seller was politically connected, which added to the suspicion.

Schoenberg filed suit to stop the purchase and he eventually forced Gov. Jim Edgar to settle. The direct result of that settlement was a new and comprehensive purchasing reform law that made a big dent in "pinstripe patronage," which is the polite term for "rich guys sucking deeply at the public trough."

Schoenberg now chairs one of the four House appropriations committees. His particular committee oversees most of the state agencies (the other three oversee education, higher education and transportation), which gives him a great vantage point to keep a close eye on government spending habits.

Schoenberg is a Democrat, so he also tends to monitor, politically suspect spending by the entrenched Republican hierarchy that has held the governor's mansion all but four years since 1969.

Anyway, as you might have imagined, Schoenberg is practically ecstatic about this new ruling. State agencies do their best to conceal as much as they can from appropriations chairmen. Money is squirreled away in obscure corners of their budgets, job positions are funded but never filled, contracts are quietly slipped to friends of the established order.

When these new GASB rules take effect in 2001, Schoenberg will have lots more information at his fingertips. Information, you will remember, is power.

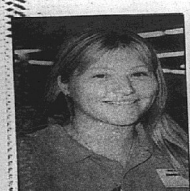

The more information Schoenberg has, the more leverage he'll have to curb more waste and inefficiencies. Not a bad deal.

The news isn't all good, though. The Government Financial Officers Association — the group which represents the bean counters — is completely opposed to the new idea and is vowing to make the GASB back down. The association is worried mainly about the cost to their members' budgets of totaling up all those new numbers. But if Schoenberg is right, it will cost the taxpayers a whole lot more if these rules never take effect.

Murder suspect possibly seen in area

Cahokia service station employee may have recognized fugitive

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Employees at a Cahokia service station may have had a face-to-face encounter Tuesday with Rafael Resendez-Ramirez, suspected of being the "railroad killer" responsible for at least eight slayings.

The FBI is investigating whether a man who bought gasoline Tuesday morning at the Cahokia Amoco station could have been Resendez-Ramirez, who was added Monday to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

"Looking at the picture in the newspaper, I'm about 80 percent sure it was him," said the manager of the gas station, who asked that his name be withheld, in a telephone interview. "It's real close. The guy's height matched the description and the hair and the mustache and all that."

Resendez-Ramirez is a Mexican national who is wanted for questioning in a series of homicide, rape and burglary cases in three states.

He is described as a Hispanic man, about 39 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds. He has black hair and brown eyes and may wear prescription eyeglasses.

Resendez-Ramirez has scars on his right ring finger, his left wrist and his forehead. He has a snake tattoo on his left arm and may have a flower tattoo on his left wrist.

The FBI and other law enforcement agencies are offering rewards totaling up to $100,000 for any information directly leading to his arrest.

Resendez-Ramirez was charged Monday in Jackson County Circuit Court with two counts of first-degree murder in the killings of 80-year-old George Morber Sr. and his daughter, 1-year-old Carolyn Frederick, whose bodies were found June 15 at their home on Illinois Route 3 in Gorham, about 100 miles south of Cahokia.

Morber's truck was found the next day in Cairo, Egypt. Since then, authorities believe Resendez-Ramirez was seen in Southern Illinois near railroad tracks in Chester last week and outside a coin laundry in Percy on Sunday.

About 7 a.m. Tuesday, a man bought gas at the Cahokia Amoco and asked the clerk for directions to Interstate 44, said Lt. James Nichols of the Cahokia Police Department.

The manager explained that he was in the store, which is on Camp Jackson Road (Illinois Route 157) near Interstate 255, and talked to the man "for about 30 to 40 seconds" to give him directions.

"The gentleman was polite, if that was him," the manager said. He directed the man to go south on I-255, cross the Mississippi River via the Jefferson Barracks Bridge into Missouri then follow Interstate 270 to westbound I-44.

A few minutes later, the clerk who had waited on the customer showed the manager a newspaper article about Resendez-Ramirez that showed his photograph. She said she believed the customer was the same man in the picture.

"I kind of compared it and made the phone call (to police)," the manager said. Nichols said police received the call about 7:45 a.m. and sent officers to the Amoco station. They searched the area but found no sign of the man.

The station employees were unable to give police a description of the customer's vehicle. The manager said the man appeared disheveled.

"He wasn't well-groomed at all," he said. "He had on an old T-shirt, blue jeans and worn-out boots."

A videotape from a surveillance camera at the store captured the customer's image, authorities said.

"The surveillance tape shows an individual who looks remarkably close to this guy," Nichols said, although he pointed out the tape quality was poor, with dark lighting.

"It's difficult to make out much," he said.

Cahokia police notified Illinois State Police and the Missouri State Highway Patrol about the possible sighting of the fugitive then called the FBI.

FBI agents soon arrived in Cahokia and took over the investigation, Nichols said. Officials with the FBI's office in Fairview Heights referred calls about the incident to the agency's Springfield office, where a spokesman did not return calls seeking comment about the investigation.

"The consensus opinion is that whoever was here is gone," Nichols said. He noted that the service station is about two miles from the railroad tracks that run through Cahokia.

The manager said his clerk was "kind of nervous after it all happened... after it dawned on her."

Duck racing takes over water park

Collinsville's Splash City scene of area's newest sporting craze

Splash City Family Water Park in Collinsville is putting its ducks in a row, or at least into its lazy river.

MADISON COUNTY
At 5 p.m. Tuesday, the water park is holding "duck" races.

Rubber ducks sporting sunglasses and one of four different colors of bills — pink, purple, red and blue — are loaded into the water and then float to the finish line.

Each guest on Tuesdays is given a colored ticket and if its hue matches that of the winning duck's bill, those ticket holders win a prize from the concession stand.

Aquatic Manager Lori Fuller said dozens of guests received popcorn in last Tuesday's competition, the first of the season.

"It's something fun and a little different to create a little excitement," Fuller said. "It was neat to have everybody there standing around and yelling, 'C'mon blue!'"

The weekly contests are also a prelude to an even bigger event, "The Great American Duck Race," sponsored by the Ducks for that race can be "adopted" for $5 each. Witty said they are available in multiple form at a discounted rate.

With the "Quack Pack," six ducks can be adopted for $25. A "Dozen Duckies" are sold for $50.

Lawsuit against county nursing home dismissed

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

A lawsuit involving a resident's fatal fall at the Madison County Nursing Home last year has been dismissed on a technicality, but an effort is under way to reinstate it.

William Morton, 85, of Collinsville, died May 15, 1998, when he fell or jumped from the third-floor window of the home at 2121 Troy Road in Edwardsville.

His son, Richard, filed a lawsuit in Madison County Circuit Court on behalf of his father's estate in August, claiming negligence on the part of the nursing home.

However, only one defendant was named: the Madison County Nursing Home Auxiliary, a nonprofit group that legally has nothing to do with management of the home.

It wasn't until months later that Morton's attorney, Mark Levy of Edwardsville, realized that the defendant he wanted to name was Madison County. The owner and operator of the home.

Levy filed an amendment to the suit, adding the county as a defendant.

PROPERTY DAMAGE: Criminal property damage occurred Tuesday in the 1600 block of Maple and in the 5900 block of Live Oak Parkway. The property damage took place between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

In the 1600 block, a basement window and a front door were damaged. In the 5900 block, white paint was splashed on a residence.

OBSTRUCTION: Esther Thompson, 42, of the 2300 block Missouri Avenue was charged Wednesday with obstructing a police officer resulting from a hit-and-run accident that occurred June 17.

Thompson allegedly struck an individual on the 18th Street overpass. By the time authorities arrived, she had fled the scene, leaving her vehicle behind, police said. Thompson was later identified as the owner of the vehicle and was subsequently taken into custody.

BURGLARY: A burglary occurred recently at a residence in the 2700 block of Myrtle, Granite City in which a television set valued at $200 was stolen. Entry was gained through a side door, which was partially damaged. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. Tuesday and shortly after midnight Wednesday. Police are investigating.

A burglary occurred recently at a residence in the 3300 block of Johnson Road in which several items were taken. A police report did not state the items or their value. The burglary occurred between June 10 and 16.

Entry was gained through the basement door, which was smashed.

A burglary occurred Saturday at an apartment in the 2000 block of 14th Street in which a television and a bicycle were stolen. The items combined had a value of $100. Entry was gained through the front door by the way of a broken padlock.

A burglary occurred recently at a residence in the 2200 block of 14th Street in which a playstation and numerous playstation games were stolen.

The burglary occurred between June 18 and 20, when the owner of the residence was on vacation. The combined value of the items was a little over $100. Entry was gained through a basement door, which was kicked in.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION: Ian Smith, 27, of 2500 block Madison Avenue was charged Monday with unlawful possession of cannabis.

An officer was patrolling along Nameoki Road when he observed Smith riding a bicycle. Smith darted from the patrol car. The officer eventually located him in the same vicinity and found in his possession one gram of marijuana, police said.

Chicago Motley, 18, of the 1500 5th Street was charged Monday with unlawful possession of cannabis, resisting a peace officer and obstructing a police officer.

Working undercover, two officers observed Motley leaving Archway Motel on a bicycle with something in his hand. When they pulled next to Motley and asked him to stop, he tried to evade them, only to wreck the bike north on Edison by 19th street, police said.

Trying to flee, he was apprehended in the 1800 block of State. Motley resisted arrest and had to be handcuffed while lying down, police said. An Aira police dog was sent to the area, where the animal sniffed out five small bags containing marijuana.

Venice

SEX ASSAULT: An alleged sex assault early Saturday morning is being investigated by Venice police.

According to reports, at about 3 a.m., police responded to a 911 call that a woman had been beaten and raped.

When police arrived at the woman's home, they found her sitting on her porch crying.

She told police she had accepted a ride from an unidentified black male driving a two-door red Chevrolet IROC Camaro. When they arrived at her home, she said he asked for a glass of water, then pushed her into the house when she opened the door.

The man allegedly beat and choked her, then raped her.

AGGRAVATED BATTERY: An earlier confrontation may have led to a fight Friday.

A Venice man reported that two people identified by police as a 20-year-old East St. Louis resident and a 16-year-old Madison juvenile assaulted him in the Lee Wright Homes area at about 2 p.m. Friday.

The man said he was in front of his apartment playing dominoes when the two came up to him and one of them grabbed a chair and hit him in the back with it. The other suspect then allegedly grabbed the chair and struck the victim again. The two then fled.

Police said that the previous day officers, broke up a disturbance between the three and another man. According to reports, the victim of Friday's attack had told the other two to leave his younger brother alone.

Madison

GUN CHARGE: Madison police were expected to seek felony weapon charges after a man was arrested for illegal possession of a gun and drugs Sunday.

According to police, the man, an 18-year-old Brooklyn resident, was arrested at a convenience store in the 1200 block of Market after a clerk reported suspicious activity.

The clerk reported several people including a woman who was later taken into custody and then released — had exited the car as it pulled into the parking lot and the suspect staying inside the car.

When police arrived, the man allegedly got out of the car to talk to him and police saw a .380 caliber semi-automatic handgun on the driver's side floor.

After he was taken into custody, a search of the car revealed a single .32 caliber bullet and a pill bottle containing what appeared to be cocaine residue.

Police were planning to seek felony charges for possession of the weapon. Drug charges are pending lab analysis.

FB in investigates possible sighting of alleged killer

Cahokia worker may have encountered the fugitive

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Employees at a Cahokia service station may have had a face-to-face encounter Tuesday with Rafael Resendez-Ramirez, suspected of being the "railroad killer" responsible for at least eight slayings.

The FBI is investigating whether a man who bought gasoline Tuesday morning at the Cahokia Amoco station could have been Resendez-Ramirez, who was added Monday to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

"Looking at the picture in the newspaper, I'm about 80 percent sure it was him," said the manager of the gas station, who asked that his name be withheld in a telephone interview. "It's real close. The guy's height matched the description and the hair and the mustache and all that."

Resendez-Ramirez is a Mexican national who is wanted for questioning in a series of homicides, rape and burglary cases in three states.

He is described as a Hispanic man, about 39 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds. He has black hair and brown eyes and may wear prescription eyeglasses.

The FBI and other law enforcement agencies are offering rewards totaling up to $110,000 for any information directly leading to his arrest.

Resendez-Ramirez was charged Monday in Jackson County Circuit Court with two counts of first-degree murder in the killings of 60-year-old George Morber Sr. and his daughter, 51-year-old Carolyn Frederick, whose bodies were found June 15 at their home on Illinois Route 3 in Gorham, about 100 miles south of Cahokia.

Morber's truck was found the next day in Cairo. Since then, authorities believe Resendez-Ramirez was seen in Southern Illinois near railroad tracks in Chester last week and outside a coin laundry in Percy on Sunday.

About 7 a.m. Tuesday, a man bought gas at the Cahokia Amoco and asked the clerk for directions to Interstate 44, said Lt. James Nichols of the Cahokia Police Department.

The manager explained that he was in the store, which is on Camp Jackson Road (Illinois Route 157) near Interstate 255, and talked to the man "for about 30 to 40 seconds" to give him directions.

"The gentleman was polite, if that was him," the manager said. He directed the man to go south on I-255, cross the Mississippi River via the Jefferson Barracks Bridge into Missouri and then follow Interstate 270 to westbound I-44.

A few minutes later, the clerk who had waited on the customer showed the manager a newspaper article about Resendez-Ramirez that showed his photograph. She said she believed the customer was the same man in the picture.

"I kind of compared it and made the phone call (to police)," the manager said.

Nichols said police received the call about 7:45 a.m. and sent officers to the Amoco station. They searched the area but found no sign of the man.

The station employees were unable to give police a description of the customer's vehicle. The manager said the man appeared disheveled.

"He wasn't well-groomed at all," he said. "He had on an old T-shirt, blue jeans and worn-out boots."

A videotape from a surveillance camera at the store captured the customer's image, authorities said.

"The surveillance tape shows an individual who looks remarkably close to this guy," Nichols said, although he pointed out the tape quality was poor with dark lighting. "It's difficult to make out much," he said.

Cahokia police notified Illinois State Police and the Missouri State Highway Patrol about the possible sighting of the fugitive then called the FBI.

FBI agents soon arrived in Cahokia and took over the investigation, Nichols said. Officials with the FBI's office in Fairview Heights referred calls about the incident to the agency's Springfield office, where a spokesman did not return calls seeking comment about the investigation.

Protecting Your Eyes from UV Rays
What you need to know about UV protection and your eyes.

by D.C. Schnellmann, MD
Illinois Eye Specialists

The coming months are going to bring warmer days filled with bright sunshine. While we all like sunny days, we must protect our eyes from the harmful effects of the sun and its damaging ultraviolet rays. If you spend long periods of time in the sun working or playing you should wear 99-100% UV absorbing eye protection.

Eye protection is easy and can even be as simple as wearing a wide brimmed hat while outdoors.

However, maximum protection is achieved by wearing eyeglasses that absorb ultraviolet rays. Some contact lenses provide UV protection, but, although they will absorb most harmful rays, contacts do not provide the high degree of protection given by UV eyeglasses.

Due to the variability of UV protection in over-the-counter sunglasses, an optician is the most reliable source for eye protection or information. Please call our trained opticians if you have any questions regarding UV eyewear. The health of your eyes is our number one priority.

Malpractice suit involving obstetrician settled

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

An eight-year-old malpractice case that stumbled twice in trial phase has been resolved out of court.

The confidential settlement was reached last week between attorneys representing Edwardsville resident Peggy S. Grant and obstetrician Dennis J. Petroff of Glen Carbon.

Grant sued Petroff in 1991, alleging he had performed a sterilization procedure on her without her consent.

The first and third trials were declared mistrials. The doctor won the second trial, but the decision was reversed appeal and remanded to the county.

The first mistrial was declared in October 1995 when seven days into trial, Petroff's son, Christopher, was found shot to death in an unrelated case in O'Fallon.

The latest mistrial was declared Feb. 18 by Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill after a jury inadvertently was shown a videotaped deposition.

New business includes a MetroLink trip on July 6, leaving the hall at 10 a.m. going to Lambert Field, riding MetroLink back to Union Station for lunch and shopping.

A New Year's party is planned, with snacks and bingo from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dec. 31. See Irene Karlschek for sign-up sheet and information.

Entertainment was provided by Bill Jenkins, known as the One-Man Band.

It was reported that Helen Hutton was recovering from back surgery and Shirley Smith had a bad fall. Pat Wallis, Myrtle Thurston and Corrine Kreher won drawings. In addition, a total of 27 seniors visited the animals at Grant's Farm on June 8.

A party was given in her honor on May 15 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Granite City. This party also celebrated her upcoming 40th birthday. A 70s theme was used, and strobe lights, lava lamps and a disco ball were used for the decorations. Guests arrived dressed in bell-bottom jeans, tie-dyed shirts and leisure suits, as well as headbands, peace signs and some bare feet.

Prizes were given for best costumes, and a hula-hoop contest was enjoyed by all. Money was raised to donate to a member of the National Head Injury Foundation to enable that member to go to Camp Wonderland at Lake of the Ozarks.

The question was, did the miracle really happen, or was there a drought at that time in history? It was decided that the group preferred the Bible's explanation of the miracle of the Red Sea.

Mrs. Colip talked about Moses and the people in the new land and the new lands for the people. Mrs. Colip if you sweat or when you towel off after swimming. Even waterproof sunscreen should be re-applied."

Christina Rother, 17, a lifeguard at Wilson Park Pool, said she soaks herself with it.

"I use a lot of suntan lotion and wear a hat," she said. "When I'm on break, I'm out of the sun."

Many sunscreens protect people from UVB rays, but not from UVA rays. Products that protect the skin from both should be used, Haffarth said, because scientists have learned that UVA rays can cause skin cancer as well.

"Remember, a 15-minute walk outside can provide enough time to damage skin, so use the proper sunscreen," Haffarth said. "Don't forget to lotion those ears, lips and bald spots."

Haffarth added that 75 percent of sun damage occurs before age 18. Children under 2 should be kept out of the sun as much as possible.

Children older than 2 should be covered from head to toe with a sunscreen of SPF 15 or dressed in long sleeves, long pants, a wide-brimmed hat and UV-protection sunglasses. To swim, children should wear a t-shirt.

"My little girl has been wearing a shirt, with lots of sunscreen, since she's been six months old," said Holly Bartholomew of Granite City, who often takes her 2-year-old to the pool during the week.

"She tans, but doesn't burn."

Senate vote kills steel trade protection bill

workers on this bill," Durbin said. "I had a visit earlier that day from about 40 steel workers from Illinois, including a number from the Granite City area, and they were very concerned about the future of their jobs."

The bill, known as the Stop Illegal Steel Trade Act, was introduced by U.S. Rep. Pete Visclosky, D-Indiana, and passed in the House 289-141. Local U.S. Reps. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, and John Shimkus, R-Collinsville, voted in favor of the bill.

The bill would have restricted imports of all foreign steel, as well as iron ore and coke, to the monthly average volume they comparable to the three years preceding July 1997.

The restrictions would take the form of quotas, surcharges or enforceable restraint agreements and would stay in place for three years.

U.S. Commerce Department figures showed that during the second quarter of 1998, steel imports reached their highest volume in U.S. history.

Japan's imports during the first six months of 1998 increased 113.7 percent over January to June 1997, and imports from South Korea increased 89.5 percent during the same period.

Much of the problem stems from the collapse of the Asian economy, but those imports have reportedly dropped in recent months.

Bob Maxwell, a spokesman for National Steel Corporation's Granite City

Division, said Wednesday morning he was still trying to find out exactly what happened.

"I just don't know what to say at this point," he said. However, he said the company had no layoffs at this time, compared to up to 60 laid off at one time at the beginning of the year.

Durbin said they were looking at a number of other ways to help the steel industry, including a bill authorizing $1 billion in loans to steel companies and making it easier for companies to file complaints about trade abuses.

Local officials with the United Steelworkers of America were en route from Washington, where they and local steel workers lobbied for the bill, and were unavailable for comment.

Hoffman gives support to assisted living bill in one's own home and living in long term nursing facilities," Hoffman said.

He said similar legislation has worked well recently in other states, and that the bill had been before the legislature for many years.

"It will provide assisted living centers that provide meals, house keeping, security, necessary assistance as well as medical assistance for seniors," Hoffman said.

The second bill, titled Senate Bill 251, deals with HMO reform, and a "patients' bill of rights."

"We're calling on the governor to sign this managed care reform bill to ensure that we provide that patients of doctors can make decisions as to what type of health care is going to be provided. It essentially does four different things," Hoffman said.

One of its provisions prohibits insurance companies from limiting what doctors can tell patients about treatment options.

"Right now, some insurance companies have been telling doctors that they couldn't tell patients all of their health care options. This (bill) says that doctors will be free to tell patients, whether you're a senior or otherwise, all of the health care options that are available to them," Hoffman said.

It also prohibits insurance companies from requiring prior approval for emergency care, and will require HMOs to reply to urgent care requests within 24 hours.

Patients will also be entitled to receive information from their HMO in a legible format.

Companies will provide information about their coverage in a format that people can understand without hiring a lawyer in order to determine what coverage they actually have," Hoffman said.

He said he had no idea which way the governor was leaning on the legislation, but that he had about 60 days to sign it.

Grant sought for preserve

the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge.

The land would be purchased from private owners — including Waste Management Inc., which operates the Chain of Rocks Landfill — and would include some federal land owned by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Mike Fries, an engineer with Trailnet, said the grant application must be submitted by July 1.

He also said that "fairly significant" funds might be available from the Corps to develop recreational facilities on the island.

City officials were very supportive of the proposal, but wanted to make sure the land would either be annexed to Madison, or the property itself would be owned by the city in a long-term lease arrangement similar to that of Trailnet has with the bridge.

City officials have said that they want to develop a preserve which will probably eventually be annexed entirely into Madison — to be developed as a recreational facility.

suit with the same hope that the commercial corridor will attract development.

"Most people living in the area are for this," said Fifth

Ward Alderman Lurton Pulley. "I had many calls asking when it would be rezoned. People want to sell their property to get out of there."

Asadorian said he has also received numerous calls and wants to see all of the Tri-City Park area rezoned commercially.

Godfrey woman found fit to stand trial

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

A Godfrey woman has been found fit to stand trial in the death of her baby daughter last year.

Michelle T. Swanson, 27, was released Tuesday from the Alton Mental Health Center and turned over to the custody of the Madison County Sheriff's Department on the order of Circuit Judge J. Lawrence Keshner.

She was taken to the Madison County Jail, where she was held in lieu of $500,000 bond.

Swanson is charged with attempted first-degree murder, a count that was filed last fall while her daughter, Stephanie Esters, was clinging to life at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital in St. Louis.

Swanson was accused of taking her 3-week-old child, slapping her against a wall then placing her under a pile of clothes in an attempt to suffocate her Oct. 10.

On Oct. 30, the child's father ordered her taken off life-support systems.

By that time, however, Circuit Judge Edward C. Ferguson had ruled Swanson unfit to stand trial based on a report from court-appointed psychologist Dr. Lawrence Taliana.

Swanson was taken to Alton Mental Health Center, where center staff re-evaluated her and found her mentally fit. Now, prosecutors are mulling over the possibilities.

"This is an unusual case," Assistant State's Attorney Don Weber said. "Now that she is fit to stand trial, we will review the case for possible additional charges and then disposition."

Construction magnate donates $1 million to SIUE biz school

Specific uses for Korte's gift still being planned

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Ralph Korte, who never went to high school and earned a business degree by going to night classes, gave $1 million Monday to the SIUE School of Business.

"Our company has operated in 32 states; we did $140 million in business last year, but if it weren't for my degree from SIUE, I might be doing $1 million a year," Korte said. The construction man from Highland donated the money to establish the Ralph and Donna Korte Fund for Leadership and Innovation in Business Education.

The specific budget for the money still is being planned, but some of the activities might be expanded use of video conferencing, development of on-line courses and workshops or training sessions for faculty members on new curricular innovations. Korte said he attended night school on the GI Bill at the former Rock Junior High School building in East St. Louis. He was admitted on the strength of his test scores on his high school equivalency tests.

He credited former SIUE President Delyte Morris with establishing the campus in Edwardsville to serve people in the St. Louis region who might not otherwise have a chance to go to college.

"I never spent a day in high school," Korte said. He served in the military during the Korean War and went to school while working at his own construction business.

"My only purpose was to get even with Uncle Sam, but soon I realized this stuff was helping me run my business," Korte said.

He graduated in 1968, shortly after the first of the buildings at the Edwardsville campus were built. "I went to the first night classes at the Peck Building," he said.

SIUE Chancellor David Werner said he hopes others will follow Korte's example and give back to the university.

Werner also pointed out that the university still has a place for people such as Korte who commute to classes to get their education.

The gift is one of the largest in university history, officials said. The gift announcement was made in a classroom on campus named after Korte.

Korte was also instrumental in raising money for the track and field facility that has been host to the 1994 U.S. Olympic Festival and other nationally prominent events. The stadium later was named for him.

Korte is founder and chairman of the board of Korte Construction, one of the nation's top 400 contractors. He is also chairman of the business school's Business Advisory Board.

With Monday's announcement, the school has raised more than $1.3 million toward its goal of $2 million in major gifts, said Bob Carver, dean of the business school.

Collinsville seminar focuses on auto crash causes, prevention college scholar ships and was anxious to play football. All that changed one night in February 1997. A few drinks with friends after work led to a crash that might have killed Shipley.

"I got about a mile and a half down the road and I lost control," Shipley recalled. "I was thrown out of the car... I hit a ditch and landed on my head and broke my neck."

More than two years later, Shipley lives in Lebanon. He attends Belleville Area College, but his dreams of playing football are just that, dreams.

Shipley, paralyzed from the mid-chest down, has limited movement in but no use of his hands.

"I need help with everything," Shipley said. "It's been a living hell."

George Ferris, a regional program manager with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said Shipley was one of 3.1 million people injured in auto accidents nationwide in 1997.

Shipley also could have been one of 16,189 alcohol-related fatalities that year.

Ferris and Shipley addressed a crowd of Madison and St. Clair County officials Friday morning at Gateway Center in Collinsville.

Texas aviation company coming soon to Bethalto airport facility

Arrival may mean jobs for displaced Boeing workers

By Linda N. Weller
Staff writer

The talk was about jobs, jobs and more jobs Saturday at St. Louis Regional Airport in Bethalto.

During a news conference — which initially was arranged to unveil the airport's new soaring eagle logo — details of the planned coming of Eagle One Aviation Inc. LLC of Fort Worth, Texas, were on stage. Also ongoing was the Confederate Air Force's vintage aircraft show featuring "wings" from Arizona, Missouri and the Great Lakes. "We are very enthused about this opportunity, but we have a lot of work left to do," said Boyd Burton, chairman and chief executive officer of Eagle One.

Standing on the airport's tarmac, Burton and three other Eagle One officials answered questions about the aircraft modification firm's plans. News broke last week that the company is planning to buy the former AEL building at the airport.

At first, 100 to 150 workers will be hired once the plant opens, probably in November.

Eventually, up to 350 people may be hired, many of them aerospace machinists laid off by Ford Motor Co. in St. Louis.

Dominick Pescatore, director of human resources for Eagle One, said support staff, including clerical and cardroom coordinators in the planning department, also will be hired.

A building maintenance tool person and human resource assistant will be new hires from the St. Louis area.

Throughout the morning, a number of hopefuls approached the officials with questions about the company's hiring plans and applying for a job.

Pescatore said many of the displaced skilled employees now work for subcontractors. He said while Eagle One employees won't be union workers — unless they organize — the company will offer wages and benefits at a level that would preclude the need for a union. Starting wages will range between $15.75 and $20 per hour, he said.

Pescatore was planning to accept resumes on Monday. Boeing will hold an in-house job fair for Eagle One this week in St. Louis for its workers.

Applications also can be sent to Eagle One's office in Fort Worth.

Officials from Madison County, the village of Bethalto, the airport and the River Bend Growth Association all hailed the coming of Eagle One.

"It's been in the works for more than a year," said Rudy Papa, chairman of the Madison County Board.

"Today's a big day," Bethalto Mayor Steve Bryant said. "It's evident no stone has been left unturned; a lot of hard work has paid off. We're excited for our village, for the county and most of all, for the citizens of the community. It's a real starting point to get the airport where it wants to be and where it needs to be."

Marion Richardson, manager of the airport, also welcomed the newcomers.

"We are all basking in the glow of the great news that broke Thursday."

Granite City's Corey Winfield will play as a wing midfielder for the Southwestern North scholastic team.

Region 10 faces tough test

Young squad opens PSG play vs. Southwestern South

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Chris Digirolamo has a tiger by the tail. The coach of the Southwestern North team, which heads for the Prairie State Games Friday, has a talented squad of all-stars from Metro East high school soccer.

Digirolamo spent four years coaching at Collinsville High School before resigning in 1996. He has been associated with Independent F.C. Club Soccer and this is the third year of his involvement with the PSG.

"The thing is that the numbers of the players interested in trying out for the team are really down," Digirolamo said.

"(PSG soccer coordinator) Gene Briggs called me and told me to see what I could do. It was really a tough time. We just had to get what we could."

Brandon Williams (Granite City) will start in goal for Region 10. Matt Hicks (Saint Louis University High/Collinsville) will start as sweeper, and Jeremy Bayne (Triad) will start at stopper. The Granite City trio of Jared McMillan, Chris Metz and Jeremiah Beckley will provide the other two starting spots on defense.

Corey Winfield (Granite City) and Lee Zarzecky (Collinsville) will fill the bill as wing midfielders. Joe McClary (Collinsville) and Adam Emig (Althoff) start at center midfield.

Todd Bruns (Triad) and Mike Smith (Granite City) make up a deadly duo at striker.

While it does have the talent to fight for the gold, the North side is characterized by its inexperience.

"The high school team is going to be really good, but they are really young," Digirolamo said. "We have been practicing twice per week. There is a lot of young talent. It's a very good mix of kids — they're just young."

Region 10 opens play at 10 a.m. Friday against what could prove to be the team to beat in the entire field.

"We play the Southwestern South team first, and they are really senior-oriented," Digirolamo said. "They are the favorites to win the gold medal, but I think we are just as strong, except for the experience they have. We should be able to tell a lot by Friday morning."

Coach impressed with talent

Granite City influence helps form solid open squad

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Prairie State Games will provide the setting for an impressive collection of former area high school soccer heroes.

The Southwestern North open men's team (any players out of high school) is stuffed with local talent that went on to star at the college level.

"The men are the favorites to win the gold medal," Region 10 coach Chris Digirolamo said. "They are really strong. Wow, is that going to be a treat to coach. A lot of eyes are on us."

The team was cobbled together from the north half of the Metro East.

"Simon Weiss went to Highland High School and North Carolina State University," Digirolamo said. "He played on Scott Gallagher (club soccer) for year. He was on the St. Louis Ambush (indoor soccer) as a developmental player. He's a great player and should be a big key for us in the midfield."

Jeff Rhumer (Evansville University) was the only Collinsville hometown hero who came out for the team. "The core of the men's team is from Granite City and Alton."

Alton sends David Klansner (MacMurray College), Mark Kucurzyk (Bellevue Area College), Jim Whisler, Matt Mader (Quincy), Pat Kane, Joel Cowan (Monmouth), and

Toby Honesey (Forest Park CC).

Granite sends Travis Mills (UAB), Jerry Richardson (University of Wisconsin-Green Bay), Kurt Atkinson (BAC), Jason Matthenia (McKendree College) and Jeff Haues.

The other three former Warriors — Matt Little, Justin McMillan and Justin Bernaix — jump from the starting 11 at SIUE. Both Bernaix and McMillan are coming off of injuries that curtailed their Senior twins Lauren and Adrienne Norbury lead the list of returning seniors on the Southwestern North division roster.

The twins played last fall for the Kahoks. Senior Alyson Sagovac, a powerful outside or middle hitter for Triad, also played last year. The other two seniors, Angie Baumgartner (Triad) and Lynn Stahlhut (Metro-East Lutheran), did not play for the scholastic volleyball team last year.

Junior Kelly Toppmeyer (Civic Memorial), junior Karen Boyd (Triad) and junior Nicole Shoger (Edwardsville) are all PSG tested players who were with the squad that played for the bronze medal. The remaining newcomer is senior Stacy Deluca (Collinsville).

"Most of these girls are familiar with each other," Coffman said. "They have played with each other or against each other in high school or club volleyball."

Because none of the teams have much time to prepare for the games, which take place on Friday for the scholastic women's volleyball round-robin tournament, the open women's team has been scrimmaging against the scholastic team.

It's an ideal situation for Coffman, who is a member of the open women's squad.

Coffman plans to use a 6-2 rotation with Toppmeyer and Lauren Norbury running the

Waller lands a piecemeal team

Southwestern North coach: Girls must play sound defense

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Rich Waller has a difficult task ahead of him.

Waller has to get a rag-tag team of assorted high school basketball talent ready to play as a unit in the Prairie State Games, held in Fairview Heights this weekend.

"It's tough to prepare for," Waller said. "If you even get a couple of practices in you're lucky."

Waller has spent six years coaching at North Junior High School in Collinsville and coached the freshmen at Collinsville High School for three years. This is his second season guiding the PSG team.

Last year's Southwestern North squad went 1-2 and was knocked out in pool play.

"Offensively last year I had so much talent," Waller said. "In the first game we made too many passes, we were too unselfish."

One thing I'll tell the girls this year is that if you have a shot that you would take during the high school season, go ahead and take it. We want them to just go with their talent, not be too perfect with the passing and take what the defense gives us.

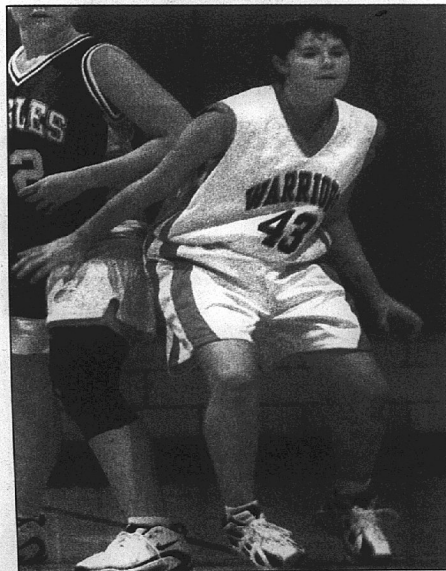

"Defense in these things has to carry you because the offense will be rusty. The girls aren't used to working with each other. But you can always play good defense. I just hope the girls come out strong from the get-go."

Waller had to get together a large chunk of the team without ever seeing them play.

"This year we didn't have anyone try out," Waller said. "I hopped on the phone and started talking to coaches in the area. I got some support from (Granite City High School) coach John Moad. He's a real neat guy. I called him up and he delved into it and got me Debra Aaron, Jan Shanafelt, Jessica Wallace and Ashley Bogovich from his team."

"Amy Streuter (Metro East Lutheran) played with me last

Women ready to defend title

Open soccer squad aiming for fifth consecutive gold

By Rick Broome

The women of the Southwestern North soccer team have a certain measure of tradition to live up to in the forthcoming Prairie State Games, taking place this weekend at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"They won the last four years in a row, scoring 92 goals while only allowing five," Southwestern North women's soccer coach Gene Briggs said. "A lot of those girls are back. It should be a pretty solid squad."

The team's strength should be in their strike force. Briggs can choose from players like former Granite City High School superstar Staci Dowd, who matriculated through Lewis & Clark and SIUE before accepting an assistant

"The defense doesn't give up too many goals and the midfield can get the forwards the ball. But we definitely have a superior ability to put the ball into the net."

coaching position with McKendree this spring. Caryn Chasteen, ex-Kahok ready to shine for Lindenwood; Holly Farnsworth, another former Warrior at SIUE. Farnsworth's college teammate Linda Bowers; or former Collinsville and McKendree star Leslie Thompson.

In goal, Region 10 will start Beth Guccione, an All-American at Lewis & Clark the past two seasons. On defense, the team will have Alison Arnold (SIUE), Val Hasty (Granite City, SIUE), Jackie Herren (Collinsville, Lindenwood), Holly Houston (SLU), Katie Lemick (SIUE) and Mandy Atkinson (SIUE).

In the midfield are Carrie Bechtold (Quincy), Denise McMillan and Kelly Thomas (Granite City, University of Missouri at Rolla), Leslie Henigman (SIUE), Rita Durbin (Western Kentucky) and Jennifer Hill (SLU). "The defense doesn't give up too many goals and the midfield can get the forwards the ball," Briggs said. "But we definitely have a superior ability to put the ball into the net."

Region 10 opens defense of its four-time title against Windy City at 2 p.m. Friday on SIUE soccer field No. 4.

"Not knowing the teams we will play, you can't look past anybody," Briggs said. "But the girls play very competitively and they take this very seriously. They have practiced whether it was raining or hot, they have shown up and worked hard."

"We will see what the level of competition is like, and if we can play as a group, we should have an excellent chance of winning the gold. It should be an excellent soccer tournament to watch. It should be a great edition of the Prairie State Games."

Open team impresses former Kahoks coach

"We just need to stay consistent, not have a lot of highs and lows. I hope it's hot because we are deep, and we can wear a lot of teams down. Whatever it takes to win, that's the thing. That's what we are prepared for."

college seasons last year, but Little had a big senior campaign and has seen some interest from clubs in Major League Soccer.

"I coached against Little when I was at Collinsville, and he is the complete package," Digriolamo said. "He has versatility, his mobility is unbelievable. He is equally good with both feet. He can beat you with the right, and the next time come down and beat you with the left. He has an incredible shot, good vision.

If I need him to sweep for me he can do that."

"He's going to be a real treat to coach. When we put Matt and Simon together in the midfield, it is going to be extremely difficult for the other teams to handle."

Region 10 hopes that talent can carry them through to gold. "We just need to stay consistent, not have a lot of highs and lows," Digriolamo said. "I hope it's hot because we are deep, and we can wear a lot of teams down. Whatever it takes to win, that's the thing. That's what we are prepared for."

offense and Deluca rotating in. Coffman likes the concept of having three hitters in the front row.

"We have pretty good size. Nicole and Karen are both 6 foot," Coffman said. "Angie Baumgartner is a outside hitter and she is 5-9. Adrienne is the other outside hitter, she's 5-7, 5-8. We look pretty good. They all have good vertical jumps, all are decent blockers. I think we will be strong in a couple of areas."

Sagovac and Stahlhut will be the squad's defensive specialists. "The key in high school and club volleyball and this, you have to have passing," Coffman said. "If you don't have passing, you can get the ball up for the kills."

thing to prove.

The experienced bunch of scholastic girls want to show the rest of the field that southwestern Illinois soccer rules.

Region 10 is loaded with talent from the area. "We have a number of Granite City players," coach Gene Briggs said. "There is a limit to the number of athletes that you can have from one school, but seniors don't count toward that number. Granite City had a lot of seniors and they were interested in playing for us this year. That really benefits us."

In goal, Region 10 starts Granite City's Chelsea Peery, who made the honorable mention all-Southwestern Conference team this season as a sophomore.

The backfield will feature four of Peery's Warrior teammates — sophomore Jessica Vasiloff and seniors Becky Boone, Brandi Ficker and Crystal Cavins.

The squad's defense also will have Mandy Camillo from Collinsville's sectional semifinalist team and Cassy Kamprath from Edwardsville. The midfield features two seniors (Jamie Raub and Leah Gambin) and a sophomore (Ashley Burdge) from Granite City and two juniors from Collinsville (Kristine Hunsinger and Jan Delaney).

Striking duties will fall to two Warriors, junior Erika Todd and sophomore Keri Ousley.

"We do have what seems to be a pretty strong group," Briggs said. The mix of older and younger players should prove to be a pretty strong lineup."

The team opens play on Friday at noon against North Shore on SIUE Field 3.

"We don't know the competition too well yet," Briggs said. "The (Southwestern) South will be a pretty good team. It is basically made up of Carbondale teams, and Carbondale had a good season. North Shore (from the outskirts of Chicago) usually has a good team, as does Windy City, from Chicago proper."

"It should be an exciting tournament in good, hot soccer weather. Hopefully they do what they can to get to the medal round, and if so, play to our potential Sunday."

"There is a chance that we could be pretty solid, but we just have to see how they do together. That's really the key, to play as a group."

year in the Prairie State Games. I contacted Cara Fischer, she played for me in junior high and then as a freshman at Collinsville. She has some potential, I've always been pretty impressed by her. We got some support from Ramsey (High School), they had some talent, with Jackie Kircher and Jamie Berner. I pretty much just had to call around and see who I could come up with."

"This year we didn't have anyone try out."

Rich Waller
Region 10 coach

The team will be missing Collinsville standout and Journal Newspapers of Southern Illinois Female Athlete of the Year Autumn Dow due to a previous family engagement. But the ladies will forge ahead without her.

"Streuter is a talented player," Waller said. "She averaged around 17 points per game during her high school season. She is going to Concordia Lutheran in Nebraska. Debra Aaron is going to Lewis & Clark, and Shanafelt is going to MacMurray College. So we do have some college players there. Erin Zukosky looked good at the workouts."

At 6-foot-1, she looks to be pretty quick. I may try her out on the point on the press."

"I think we'll pretty much be a guard-oriented team. I think we'll be quick. Hopefully, we'll be able to use the 1-2-2 press and use both ends of the court effectively. We have some height, too. We'll just throw them out there and see what they can do."

Justins jolt offense with grand slams

Volkmar, Heflin help Herr Travelers sweep twin bill vs. Bethalto

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

What a difference Justin Heflin and Justin Volkmar make when they play for the Collinsville Junior American Legion baseball team.

The two Justins — only part-timers for the Herr Travelers — usually find themselves up a level with the senior league squad.

Back in the lineup Monday for the Travelers, the Justins supplied plenty of offense as Collinsville swept Bethalto 12-1, 13-9 in an early evening twin bill.

With the two victories, the Travelers improved to 6-3 on the summer.

(In the second game)

"It gives everybody confidence when they are in the lineup. We have the guns to fire. When we play without them, we have to put some hits together."

Dave Caselli
Herr Travelers coach

Heflin had four hits and Volkmar, three, Herr Travelers skipper Dave Caselli said. "They had seven of our 11 hits. It gives everybody confidence when they are in the lineup. We have the guns to fire. When we play without them, we have to put some hits together."

Heflin had the biggest day at the plate for Collinsville in the doubleheader sweep. He collected seven hits, including a grand slam in the second game. Volkmar had four hits, including a grand slam in the second contest.

Collinsville was holding onto a slim 3-2 advantage in the fourth inning when Volkmar blasted his grand slam.

Bethalto came back in the bottom half of the fourth to close the lead to 7-5. Heflin immediately gave the Travelers some breathing room in the fifth when he belted his grand slam. Ryan Atwood picked up the victory in the second game.

In the first contest, Bethalto tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the third. But the Travelers put the game away with an 11-run outburst in the bottom of the frame.

Jason Reaka was the big hitting star in the 12-1 five-inning victory. Reaka picked up five RBI, three coming on a single that cleared the loaded bases. Steve Mandeville and Joe Stogner also picked up two RBI in the game.

Andy Sidwell pitched a brilliant game, allowing just four hits.

Next up for the Travelers was a game Wednesday night against Waterloo.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

In an unusually lively race for Pocono, Bobby Labonte took the lead from Jimmy Spencer (who faded to 14th) and captured his first career victory at the track and second in his last three starts.

Trailing Labonte across the line, in order, were Jeff Gordon, Dale Jarrett, pole winner Sterling Marlin, Mark Martin, Tony Stewart and Dale Earnhardt.

It was the third victory of the season for a Pontiac.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

In a first-time appearance on a road course, Roush Racing teammates Greg Biffle and Mike Bliss finished 1-2 at Portland, Ore.

Jack Sprague took a 16-point lead over Stacy Compton in the season standings. But both Compton and Ron Hornaday crashed, and Sprague had to replace a faulty clutch.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Michael Waltrip vs. Bill Elliott

An inadvertent tap from Elliott sent Michael Waltrip into the wall and out of the Pocono 500. "Whoever was behind me ran over me wide open. He couldn't have hit me any harder," fumed Waltrip.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Elliott's reputation is almost spotless, and he seldom wrecks anyone. One wonders, had Waltrip known it was Elliott when he made his remarks, if he would have said them."

PROFILE

Bill Elliott

Bill Elliott, left, has 40 wins in his 572 starts.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Bill Elliott, once one of NASCAR's dominant drivers, is struggling to get the team he owns back up to the front of the pack.

One thing Elliott has never lost is the support of his fans. Despite the fact that his most recent win occurred in September 1994, last year Elliott won NASCAR's Most Popular Driver fan balloting for a record 13th time.

AGE: 43
HOMETOWN: Born in Cumming, Ga., raised in Dawsonville, Ga., lives in Blairsville, Ga.

WIFE: Cindy
CHILDREN: Stan (21), Brittany (7), Chase (3)

CAR: No. 94 McDonald's Ford Taurus, owned by Elliott

RECORD: 572 starts, 40 wins, 49 poles, 151 top-five finishes, 277 top-10s, more than $20 million in career earnings

FIRSTS: Start (Feb. 29, 1976, at Rockingham), pole (April 10, 1981, at Darlington), win (Nov. 20, 1993, at Riverside, Calif.)

DO YOU FEEL YOUR TEAM IS MAKING PROGRESS? "I had someone say to me the other night that it looked like we weren't running too well. I said that I thought we had been running pretty good. The competition level has probably gone up three or four notches, even in the past six months to a year. We get better and the competition gets a little better. You've just got to keep hammering it out."

HAVE YOU GOTTEN MORE COMPETITIVE IN THE LAST FEW RACES? "It seems like things have come together very well the last several races. I think the biggest thing we've kind of struggled through is it seems like sometimes during a race we've had an off run. I think that's just everybody getting together and knowing what everyone needs to do. I just feel like things are coming together real well. I'm very pleased with what Wayne (Orme, new crew chief) has been doing. It seems like Eddie (D'Hondt, team manager) and all the guys have really pulled together with all the adversity we've faced the last several months and have turned things around for me."

DO YOU HAVE THE FEELING THAT YOU CAN WIN AGAIN? "Absolutely. The thing we've got to look at is as good as (Jeff) Gordon and several other people have gotten, they tend to overshadow you a little bit when you do your best."

Trackside Trivia

- How many second-place finishes did Sterling Marlin have before he won his first Winston Cup race?
- What International star won the 1967 Daytona 500?
- What make of car won the first road race in NASCAR history?

1. Nine; 2. Mario Andretti; 3. Jaguar.

ANSWERS

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
You reported that "Terry Labonte won the closest race in (Busch) series history, edging Joe Nemechek by an estimated 2.35 inches (.002 of a second)."

I question the 2.35 inches.

Arjan DeKock
Rolla, Mo.

Your enclosed mathematical estimate (figuring the margin as 6.688 inches) appears correct to us. The figure cited was disseminated, apparently wrongly, by press-box officials.

Dear NASCAR This Week,

As a teen-ager, I am able to get a scholarship in any sport I choose to do well in. Except NASCAR. Can you tell us if there are any racing schools that enable someone to enter the various NASCAR racing leagues? Is there a given set of rules governing potential race drivers?

There are a few million of us who can drive just as well as the current racers.

Mike Clark
Athens, Tenn.

Racing schools exist, but none that guarantee a person a ride in any series. We sympathize with your plight but do not believe there are millions of people out there "who can drive just as well as the current racers." If you, or anyone else, really can drive that well, an influential person will notice.

Dear NASCAR This Week,

Why is it all of a sudden this year, "Geoff Bodine" is now known as "Geoffrey Bodine"?

Karol Kraus
Leighton, Pa.

Before the season Mr. Bodine said he would prefer to be called Geoffrey, not Geoff.

You must impose discipline on your children's friends, too

Parenting our own children often is not enough. We must help parent our children's friends as well.

Dennis O'Brien

FAMILY MATTERS

We all need help raising our children. We must trust others to assist us in parenting our children due to many factors.

Ensuring your child's friends behave responsibly under your guidance will protect your child from both hurt and harm.

Think of yourself as your family's human resources manager charged with recruiting the best candidates to be your child's friend. Begin when your child is young. You can determine who would make the best playmates by observing and evaluating what your child says and how she or he reacts after being with particular children.

Networking with other parents also is helpful. What have other parents observed and what do they make of it? Use your power to control car pool and schedule social time to eliminate the troublesome and expand opportunities for your child to associate with those who enrich interpersonal experiences and reinforce your family's values.

As your child grows, discuss, point out and clarify the advantages and disadvantages of associating with certain children. The objective is not to justify your decisions but to help your child internalize values important to you.

In addition to screening, there are other ways we can directly parent the children of others while helping our children in the process:

- Be clear about your expectations when you are in charge and when you leave your child in the care of another family.
- Expect your child's friends to behave well, and set predictable consequences for misbehavior, even behavior as minor as not cleaning up after making a mess.

- Be on the lookout for harmful behaviors, even ordinary, subtle ones. This includes cliques, gossip, acting out, stealing and excessive competitiveness.

- Pay attention to unusual or secretive behavior. What is being hidden from adults and why? It's better to find out early as opposed to late.

- Try to understand your child's friends as individuals. Look at their behaviors and try to discern their motives, feelings and basic character.

- Stay in touch with your child's friends, especially when they become teens and their social opportunities expand. Welcome them into your home and make them feel comfortable.

- Intervene firmly when necessary. Parents should act whenever they notice a lapse into inappropriate behavior. Speak up immediately and address all the children involved, not just your own.

- Report to other parents and expect reports from them. If a parent isn't comfortable with the discipline you impose on her or his child, you probably will not be comfortable leaving your child in her or his care.

- Alert other adults when necessary. This includes parents, counselors, teachers and even the police, depending on the situation.
- Make unpopular "damage control" decisions when they are called for.

P arish Picnic

Summer has arrived and so the have carnivals, homecomings and picnics. St. Elizabeth Parish held its annual festival two weeks ago, followed by Holy Family's last weekend. Mexican music, a host of children's rides and a variety of food were featured at Holy Family Community Center. Adults and teenagers combed the grounds, trying to toss basketballs through the hoops or pop balloons as a fun-filled way to win that special stuffed animal. Children and teenagers, on the other hand, slid or tumbled down a giant slide resembling the Titanic or zipped around the track on a roller coaster or other fast-paced rides. Children three and under had an opportunity to take a train ride with mom or dad or see the grounds from atop a ferris wheel. The three day family event was attended by a large number of people from the area.

Patriots in the Park

Thousands expected to attend Independence Day celebration

A spectacular fireworks display will light up the night sky over Wilson Park during the "Patriots in the Park" 4th of July Celebration.

An estimated 20,000 people will gather for the fun-filled, five-day event. They will not only enjoy the fireworks, but also take part in a host of carnival activities.

"Our celebration has become a popular Independence Day event, second only to Fair St. Louis. At the same time, we have successfully maintained a hometown feeling with wholesome, family-oriented activities as we spread the message of liberty, freedom and heritage," said Granite City Park District Director Dave Polivick.

The event will be Wednesday, June 30, to Sunday July 4.

Some featured attractions will include pony rides, face painting, mud volleyball, tug-of-war tournaments, Civil War re-enactment encampments, a petting zoo and the always popular carriage rides.

Those carriage rides will be extended this year, and for the first time, organizers will pay tribute to veterans and citizens of World War II with musical sounds from the 1940s.

"If you like a family outing with lots of entertainment and patriotism, Wilson Park is the place to be over the 4th of July weekend," Polivick said. "The success of our Independence Day celebration is due to a group of volunteers, generous business and civic sponsorship and an amazing effort involving our churches, schools, parks, police and fire departments, city departments work crews and other community sectors," Polivick said.

At top, children enjoy sparklers during the fireworks display. At bottom, a band provides some of the entertainment for Patriots in the Park.

Buildings take center stage at celebration

Glen Carbon honors its local landmarks

By Tony Masinelli
Staff writer

Four historic buildings took center stage during the third annual Rediscover Glen Carbon Celebration, held at the 1853 Yanda Log Cabin on Saturday.

The cabin and three other properties — the Garden Kingdom, the Michaels Residence, and the Centennial Library and Historical Museum — were honored as Local Landmarks by the Glen Carbon Historical Preservation Commission.

"The purpose of the designation as a landmark is to acknowledge those people who have taken the time and money to preserve historical properties in our community," said Joyce Williams, chairperson of the commission. It's just a way of saying thank you for the hard work these people have done."

The Garden Kingdom occupies the structure originally known as the Valier and Spies Milling Company, which in 1897 constructed a circular grain elevator that earned the nickname, "The Castle." The Garden Kingdom, a retail business, received the landmark award for preserving the elevator.

Chris and Amy Michaels received a landmark award for their loving restoration of the 1912 home built on Glen Crossing Road by Czechoslovakian immigrant Joseph Nekola. Prior to restoring the structure, which once served double-duty as a rehearsal venue for the Glen Carbon Orchestra, Amy Michaels conducted extensive research about the family that built the house.

The Centennial Library and Historical Museum has served a variety of functions since its construction in 1914, providing space for a teen hall, doctor's office, village hall, police department and even a jail. The Centennial Library Board consulted with the Historical Preservation Commission during renovation work that restored the building to its original condition.

The Yanda Log Cabin was restored during an extensive volunteer renovation project coordinated by Robert Williams.

Camping out? Don't forget Metro East

Area offers spots to spend a night outside

By Larry Ingram
Staff writer

Temperatures are heating up across the Metro East and so is the yearning to stay out all night under the stars at a campground.

Some campers in the Metro East park their RVs near downtown St. Louis while they are visiting the sites like the Cahokia Mounds. There are a number of campgrounds within five miles of the Arch. Campers can also take MetroLink over to St. Louis for a Cardinals baseball game.

Everyone has an idea of what camping is. For some, it means a motor home with an air conditioner. Some campers take a backpack, dehydrated food, a first aid kit, a sleeping bag and a blanket.

If you are looking to get away from civilization or just your house for a day or two, camping in the Metro East can be just the activity for the whole family. There are a handful of campgrounds off Illinois 3 and Interstate 270.

John Kuva operates the KOA Campground off the Chain of Rocks Road in Granite City.

"We have 78-80 sites," Kuva said. "We charge $21 for full hook-up. That includes water, electric and sewer."

The KOA in Granite City also has a state park type playground and a 20-foot by 40-foot swimming pool.

Last week, a group of students from Wabash, Ind. visited the Granite City KOA. In all, 34 students, age 8 to 12, were on a trip with the Science in Motion (SIM) Program.

It was the group's fourth trip to the Granite City campground.

"They've always treated us very well here," said SIM group organizer Jim Smith. "They've been very nice to us as far as the use of the pool. Part of the program (Science in Motion) is to teach the kids some camp etiquette."

Camping helps to build individual skills, Smith said. "We've run into torrential rains and tremendous storms in years past," Smith said. "The kids learn to weather it."

The KOA in Granite City also has a laundry room with four washers and five dryers.

Lakeside Camping is just down the road from the KOA on the Chain of Rocks Road.

"We have 38 full hookup campsites for RVs," said Lakeside Camping manager Jeff Schaefer.

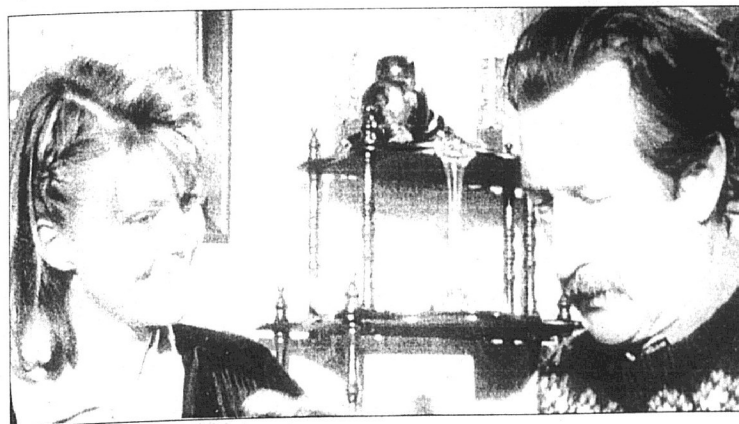

Schaefer owns and manages the campground with his wife, Susie.

"We also have seven camping sites with electricity, and eight sites without," Schaefer said.

Lakeside Camping also has a pay fishing lake that is half price for all campers.

The Cahokia RV Parque, 4060 Mississippi Ave, has 119 sites for travel trailers and tents.

'The Castle' is a cheery comic delight

By Brian Kaller
Staff writer

Darryl Kerrigan (Michael Candon) believes himself the luckiest man in the world. He is happy in his career as a tow-truck driver, the loving patriarch of a close-knit family, and the proud owner of the home he calls his castle.

His life is not one that most people would envy. To the casual observer, Darryl's children are underachievers (one son is in prison), and his house is an eyesore in a toxic-waste area under power lines next to the airport runway.

But Darryl is a man with a big heart and relentless optimism, who can look on the bright side of anything, and he takes genuine pride in showing visitors his ramshackle home, his dogs, his son's goofy inventions and his tacky plastic decorations.

"The Castle" is narrated in hilarious deadpan fashion by the youngest Kerrigan, Dale (Stephen Curry). Neither Dale and the rest of the family may be the sharpest knives in the drawer, but they make up in loyalty and guileless love what

Sophie Lee and Michael Candon in a scene from "The Castle."

'Endurance' subject Haile Gebrselassie was born to run

By Steve Bryan
Correspondent

From "Chariots of Fire" to "Prefontaine" to "Running Brave," documentaries and docudramas about runners are fascinating to watch.

"They give us a sense that this is pushing the limits of what a human being can do," said British filmmaker Leslie Woodhead in a telephone interview. "It's just an individual with no equipment, no technology and no support."

"As a guy who regards distance as a trip from the car park to the car, the thought of doing what they do is just awesome."

Woodhead has directed, written and produced documentaries for the British Broadcasting Company and Home Box Office. He recently wrote and directed "Endurance," the new Disney film about Ethiopian runner Haile Gebrselassie.

During the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga., Gebrselassie, 25, won the gold medal in the Men's 10,000-meter race.

Gebrselassie's other awards include Africa's Athlete of the Year for '97 and '98 and the Jesse Owens International Trophy Award. Runner's World magazine dubbed him "the greatest long-distance runner of all time."

"Haile says he doesn't know why, but he needs to run," Woodhead said. "He feels bad when he doesn't run. It's as essential to him as music would be to Mozart. It's something he's got to do."

"He hardly ever breaks sweat. He's like lungs on legs. He has a tremendous oxygen-processing plant built into him. He grew up, of course, at over 7,000 feet, so he has a tremendous head start over the rest of us."

"Endurance" looks at Gebrselassie's hardships as a child in Ethiopia. He ran six miles to school, hiked for three hours each day to gather water and also worked in the fields on his father's farm.

"Haile was very keen to have something done that his own countrymen could see and that would be good news about a country that's almost always bad news," Woodhead said.

Woodhead and his crew traveled to Ethiopia to film in Gebrselassie's native village of Asela. Shooting in such a remote location was not without problems or challenges.

"These are folk who have not seen that much TV or movies. They are not replaying what Tom Cruise or Sigourney Weaver might do. They're not imitating what they've seen."

"Living in the countryside was quite hard," Woodhead said.

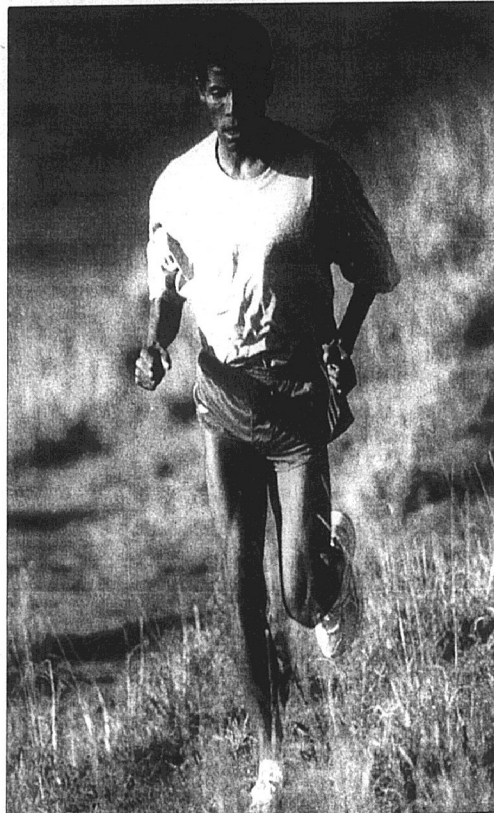

"The other problem was keeping up with Haile. Fundamentally, he's so competitive that he was constantly trying to beat the camera. He never wanted to be in second place, even to a camera car."

Much of Gebrselassie's life has been reconstructed for the film. Instead of casting professional actors in these scenes, Woodhead instead asked members of Gebrselassie's family to portray his father, mother and Haile as a boy.

"These are folk who have not seen that much TV or movies. They are not replaying what Tom Cruise or Sigourney Weaver might do. They're not imitating what they've seen," Woodhead said.

Woodhead said that Gebrselassie plans to run in both the 5,000 and 10,000-meter events at the Sidney Olympics in 2000 and then move up to running in the Olympic marathon.

Haile Gebrselassie stars as himself in the Walt Disney Pictures release, "Endurance."

Moolah Shrine Circus returns to Kiel Center

Show will feature elephants, fireworks

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

Acrobats, clowns, elephants and more will take the center ring this week when the 57th annual Moolah Shrine Circus comes to town.

Tickets are now on sale for seven performances by the Royal Hanneford Circus, running Thursday through Sunday, at Kiel Center. Reserved tickets are $20, $15, $13 (plaza reserved) and $11 (mezzanine reserved). General admission mezzanine seats are $9, with seating available on a first-come, first-serve basis.

"It's a great family entertainment value," said Barry Todd, circus chairman for the Moolah Shrine. "It's expensive to take the family anywhere, but this is a great value. It's a great, two-hour fun-filled show."

The Royal Hanneford Circus

has been entertaining audiences around the world since the late 1600s. It offers a wide variety of talent, which the Shrine Circus committee can choose from in putting together the show.

"We try for a mix of acts, changing about 75 percent of the acts each year," Todd said. "We've got a big cat act this year — we didn't have one last year — and all sorts of performing horses and fantastic gymnasts."

Among the acts performing this year:

- David Maas and Dania Kaseeva return with "Transformations," a quick change act. "This was very popular from last year. The lady changes her clothes about a half-dozen times. You can hardly believe how she can do it," Todd said.
- Roman Tomanov, an eight-year-old aerial gymnast.

His skills have earned him many awards, including the Silver Clown Award at the International Circus Festival.

- Alena and Irina Oulianov, voted "Best Aerial Act of 1995" by members of the Circus Fans of America.

- Raul Castano will amuse audiences with help from his canine partner.

- Bareback horse riders the Alfonso Loyal-Repensky Troupe of Rosinback Riders and Bareback Ballerinas.

- The Cyclones, a troupe of motorcycle daredevils.

The shows will finish off with a fireworks display. "It's a great finale. We tried laser shows in the past, but they didn't have the appeal of fireworks, especially for young kids, and that's who our audience is," Todd said.

Doing things for children always has been a key part of the Shriners' philosophy. A new program, called "Circus Angels," will enable 6,000 underprivileged and disadvantaged area children to attend the circus in a special private performance.

"It's a non-advertised, non-public show at 1:15 p.m. Thursday," Todd said. "People and businesses underwrite the cost of the children's attendance. For a first-year effort, response has been terrific."

"That's what the circus is all about, entertaining kids. That's what we're all about, helping kids."

Performance times for the Moolah Shrine Circus are 7:15 p.m. Thursday; 10:15 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Friday; 1:45 and 7:15 p.m. Saturday; and 12:45 and 5:15 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets may be purchased at the Kiel Center Box Office, 14th and Clark Avenue, or the Moolah Shrine office at 12545 Fee Fee Road. Tickets also are available at all Capital Tickets locations or by calling Daltix at 989-8000.

Criminal geniuses not common

Most lawbreakers are not that intelligent

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

According to police officers I know, the image of the criminal mastermind found in books and films is ridiculous. Oh, there undoubtedly are a few lawbreakers who are smart enough to pull off an ingenious robbery or murder and not get caught.

However, the vast majority of outlaws are at the lower end of the IQ scale. A police officer is more likely to encounter the bandits from "Home Alone" than he is to come across a Professor Moriarty.

There certainly is not the parade of criminal geniuses you may have seen on television shows such as "Columbo." On that program, a murder would take place in the first five minutes, then Columbo would take great pains to reconstruct the elaborate steps taken by the perpetrator. In reality, the police often find telltale clues such as the culprit's fingerprints, blood or in some cases wallets at crime scenes.

Legends have sprung out of criminal behavior. Jesse James and John Dillinger were murderers, yet both gained levels of interest and respect from the general public.

In recent years, no one has gained more attention from being accused of a crime than O.J. Simpson. Simpson already was famous from his football, broadcasting and acting careers, of course, but his murder trial may have been the most publicized event of the decade.

Whether he murdered his ex-wife and a man with her is

Horoscope

Thursday, June 24
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 False bursts of enthusiasm created for the purposes of pretending to go along with the crowd may only cause disruptions in activities with friends today. Be sincere in your participation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you hope to get anything done today, try to organize your hours. Poor scheduling will cause you much needless waste of time that could be devoted to meaningful endeavors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be talked about later if you don't show a willingness to reciprocate in kind today with friends who treat you in a generous fashion. They'll think you're just a taker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Extravagant, wasteful spending could plague you unless you exercise discipline in your buying habits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The trick is to put your drive on what your mind is focused on today. All the good intentions in the world can't bring about what determination to see your ideas through to completion can do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unfortunately, you may not have your mind on what you're doing today and cause a number of complications that should have been avoided simply by paying attention to the details.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Strive to be fair and considerate today, but don't be foolish about it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be extremely selective as to your associations today. If you link up with those who have no direction nor care about the concerns of others, your reputation could get damaged.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your chitchat light and breezy and don't talk shop when at a social gathering today, because those in attendance will get turned off by anyone promoting business deals.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you decide to play hooky today, there's a strong probability you'll get caught by the very ones who you don't want to know.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Once you depart from the truth today, you could get tangled in your own web.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons who have no record of ever being in the winner's circle should not have influence over your investments today. You could find yourself caught up in a wild scheme.

'Tarzan' and 'Austin Powers' rule box office

In the concrete and cartoon jungle, swingers dominated the weekend box office as "Tarzan" opened at No. 1 with $34.1 million and the "Austin Powers" sequel scored $31.9 million to cross the $100 million mark, according to industry estimates.

The military thriller "The General's Daughter" with John Travolta was third with a better-than-expected $22.3 million, while "The Phantom Menace" had $17.8 million for fourth, crossing the $300 million mark last week and overtaking "The Lion King" as the No. 6 movie of all time.

Studio executives were impressed with the weekend numbers. They said it was the first time they could recall that three movies grossed more than $20 million on the same weekend. Receipts for the top films totaled $123 million, up 21 percent from the same weekend last year.

"This says that when people make good movies, no matter how many, there's room in the marketplace," said Disney distribution head Chuck Viane.

"The marketplace will expand to meet as much demand as it needs to."

The box office was led by the animated "Tarzan," featuring the voices of Minnie Driver, Rosie O'Donnell and Tony Goldwyn, and songs by Phil Collins. It was best opening weekend for a Disney animated film since "The Lion King," which debuted with $41 million in June 1994 on its way to a domestic gross of $313 million.

If the weekend estimates that were released Sunday hold up, "Tarzan's" debut also will have topped that of "A Bug's Life," with $33.3 million last November.

Close behind was "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," returning Mike Myers as both the international man of mystery and Austin's bumbling nemesis Dr. Evil.

"Austin 2" dropped a steep 42 percent in the second week but still collected an impressive take of nearly $32 million to bring its total to $116.7 million. It crossed the $100 million mark on Saturday.

Proving the star power of Travolta, "The General's Daughter" — which had appeared doomed to be lost in the hype over "Tarzan," "Austin Powers" and "The Phantom Menace" — delivered a strong opening weekend, the best for a Travolta film since "Face-Off" in June 1997.

"Star Wars: Episode 1 — The Phantom Menace" remained strong, losing just 31 percent of its business in the fifth week, to bring its total to $327 million for sixth on the all-time list. In the next few weeks, it will easily pass No. 5 "Forrest Gump" ($330 million) and No. 4 "Jurassic Park" ($357 million) as it seeks to challenge the original "Star Wars" ($461 million) for second all-time behind "Titanic" ($600 million).

Also at the box office, the romance "Notting Hill" with Julia Roberts finished fifth with $7 million, but "Instinct," Disney's other man-lives-with-gorillas movie, proved to be a disappointment, plunging 55 percent in its third week. The Anthony Hopkins-starring film finished sixth with $3.1 million.

"The Mummy" was seventh with $3 million, "The Matrix" eighth with $1.3 million, "Entrapment" ninth with $1.2 million and "Tea With Mussolini" 10th with $635,000.

Estimated grosses for Friday through Sunday at North American theaters, according to Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc., are:

1. "Tarzan," $34.1 million.
2. "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," $31.9 million.
3. "The General's Daughter," $22.3 million.
4. "Star Wars: Episode 1 — The Phantom Menace," $17.8 million.
5. "Notting Hill," $7 million.
6. "Instinct," $3.1 million.
7. "The Mummy," $3 million.
8. "The Matrix," $1.3 million.
9. "Entrapment," $1.2 million.
10. "Tea With Mussolini," $635,000.

'Castle' a cheerful comedy

they lack in sophistication.

The Kerrigans' domestic bliss is threatened one day, when the property assessment is followed by an eviction notice. The airport is expanding, it says, and Darryl and his neighbors, including Farouk (Costas Kiliadis), a Lebanese refugee, and Jack (Monty Maizels) a panic-stricken retiree, must make way for the new runway. Anyone with a stake in the W-1W controversy will find a lot to identify with here.

But no amount of compensation can make these people budge, and they all pitch in for a legal defense. In a series of hilarious yet touching scenes, Darryl first tries to represent himself, then hires inept solicitor Dennis Denuto (Tiriel Mora).

Denuto tries his best with the law books — "he even learned Roman numerals for the occasion," Dale says — but he, too, is a spectacular failure.

The neighborhood is on the verge of giving up, as Darryl confides to a stranger outside the courtroom. But the stranger turns out to be a semiretired constitutional lawyer, and offers to take Darryl's quixotic case.

This is the latest comedy from Australia, which in the past several years has put out a steady stream of fine, quirky comedies about lovable eccentrics — "Strictly Ballroom," "Love Serenade" and "Priscilla, Queen of the Desert," to name a few.

"The Castle" is a comic delight, as modest and cheerful as its heroes. The audience at the advance screening chuckled all the way through, cheered at the end, and left with big grins. This is a movie to seek out.

State Fair seeking volunteers help

Volunteers are being sought to staff information booths and other activities at this year's Illinois State Fair.

"This program is very beneficial in providing information to fairgoers," said State Fair Manager Bud Ford. "Some of last year's volunteers have been in contact with us to help out again."

"That's encouraging and lets us know the volunteers enjoyed their experience during the fair."

Volunteers are asked to contribute at least 12 hours over the course of the fair, which runs Aug. 13-22. A training workshop will be held in July at the fairgrounds.

Refreshments will be available for volunteers. They may also attend the fair's annual Press Day and will be treated to a recognition banquet, scheduled for September.

Anyone wishing to volunteer or having additional questions should contact Suzanne Moss at (217) 782-0777.
